Emnerapport / course report *

In total, 19 students completed the course, although the number of attending students never exceeded 12. Regrettably, the course liaison did not show up at the evaluation meeting and also failed to submit an evaluation in different way. This report is therefore based on students' written assessments at the mid-way evaluation, in which the students were asked about their opinions regarding the lectures, the reading list, the exercises (with suggested answers), and the available course information.

Lectures: Almost all students said the lectures were helpful. Several emphasized that they liked the combination of PP presentations and the use of whiteboard. Another feature they highlighted was the use of many examples and that the lecturer and the students solved tasks together. One student stated that she had missed the lectures so far; hence she was unable to state an opinion.

Reading list: The students were generally happy about the reading list. However, one student remarked that the number of readings listed for lecture 3 was a bit excessive.

Exercises: All students found the exercises and the suggested answers helpful. However, one student wanted the exercises to be published a bit earlier.

Information: One student said that Canvas could be used a bit more actively. The others said the information was fine.
